Before joining the registration business in 1991, Tom gained valuable experience as Assistant Group Secretary of The Royal Bank of Scotland. This experience coupled with qualifications leading to the Fellowship of both the Institute of Chartered Secretaries and Administrators and the Chartered Institute of Bankers in Scotland has established him as among the best regarded figures in the industry.

He is a past chairman of the British Bankers' Association Registrars' and Receiving Bankers' Committee and of the ICSA Registrars' Group as well as an official ICSA advisor and elected member of ICSA's International Council and UK Committee. He is currently ICSA President of UK, Republic of Ireland and Associated Territories.

Over the past 15 years, Tom has served on numerous high level working groups, including the UK Company Law Review culminating in the 2006 Companies Act, the Shareholder Voting Working Group chaired by Lord Myners and those driving the introduction of electronic communications to securities markets.

Tom, a member of the Stock Exchange Scottish Advisory Group, is regularly consulted by the Stock Exchange, Euroclear and UK and EU government agencies on matters affecting securities markets.
